

International Supply Chain

Supply chains are becoming highly sophisticated and vital to the competitiveness of many organisations. But their interlinked, global nature also makes them increasingly complex and means it is increasingly challenging to optimise product, and information flows and ultimately deliver the right service levels, speed to market and lowest operating costs. International supply chains have undoubtedly introduced new kinds of supply chain risk and opportunities, reduced the margin for error and increased organisations reliance on specialist supply chain service providers. But structured correctly, your international supply chain can be a true source of competitive advantage for your business.

Are your global supply chain assets correctly configured with the right capacity and capability to support your business strategy & growth?

Are you adding the right value to your products at the right points in the international supply chain?

Are you sourcing your products in the right place & are overseas vendors meeting your performance expectations?

Are you consistently optimising international freight solutions & filling the right size of containers?

For our clients, the SCC team:

- » Implemented international consolidation centres to optimise product flow and costs resulting supply chain cost reductions of 5 - 10%.
- » Sourced international vendors to provide logistics, distribution, freight forwarding, customs clearance, wharf and shipping services.
- » Developed and implemented global supply chain network solutions resulting in 40 - 60% lead time reductions.
- » Optimised complex ordering processes delivering product availability at the right cost.
